

Descriptive Essay on my Best Friend

Here you have a Descriptive Essay on My Best Friend, Let's Start...

Man can be a social being and naturally want to be involved with others. In our life journey, we meet countless people, but we make no friends with everyone. This is often the case with non-friendly sine qua intimacy, taste, and gentleness. The few that we find in love, we make friends with, and that they create a lasting place in our hearts.

Friends are an essential part of your life, be it varsity, school life, office colleagues, or close friends. Everyone needs friends to share their feelings, spend time with each other, and relax.

I am lucky to have such a friend in my life that I can only rely on in love or money. Whether sharing my feelings, my good and bad times, and sometimes even my clothes, I enjoy everything with him. His name is Rishi.

The first meeting with my best friend at school

While I was in class 2, Rishi joined our school and our style. Her parents had recently moved to our city, and she was there, for the first time, in the middle of a new town, a new school, a new class, and new people all around.

Fortunately, my teacher sat her in the classroom with me. At first, she was embarrassed to be touched, but we both felt comfortable with each other that day.

After that, when we met on the day, we realised that we had a lot in common, allowing us to meet more quickly. Since then, there has been no turning back.

Our friendship

Our friendship gradually became a stage interview, and we gradually became close friends. Even our teachers understand that too. But, after all, no one ever tried to make the distance between us as we were so full of each other that even our teachers and fogeys felt happy about it. We want to help each other with class notes and homework if one of us cannot go to varsity for any reason. We had this healthy competition for who would stand first in the classroom.

Our interests are the same

Apart from the courses, we both have a common interest in Ping pong. We have both joined the academy and want to choose to get involved together in the evening. Perhaps the only difference in our habits was when I used to be right-handed; he was a left-handed person. But this was also a blessing for us because, for this reason, we formed a loyal team and even were selected by our college team to play as a double team. We both won many competitions together and brought praise to varsity. This also made our parents, as school teachers, very happy about us.

Different ways of working

We parted after our studies, and we both chose different career paths. While I was still an engineer, Rishi visited a town to become a scientist. However, as life would have been, we both moved into the same city and met again after some years. My friend has been a vital force in my life. Over the weekend, we went on a short cooking course again, and we were sometimes kicked out without realising we were going to work together in the kitchen to make creative dishes.

Sometimes these dishes end well; however, there are times when we do not nail it down as we have not correctly followed the formula. Our wives think and do not rebuke us too much after ruining the meal.

My friend and I are grateful to watch movies together at times or on tours. We like to watch jokes. Horror movies don't make us happy, and we try to get back to it.

My Friend - My Strength

In my times of need, my friend has been a pillar of strength for me. Not only did he look to find out if I was solving my problems, but he also made sure my family was not affected by the chaos of my business life.

He has always encouraged me to deal with problems as they are and not to get drunk under challenging circumstances. I'm glad I have such a friend in my life that I can't believe in blindness.

Why a Friend Is So Important (His friendship is essential in life)

True friendship is a vital thing in the world. Or, it may be that a person does not have a friend whom one can call a friend.

However, once you are ready to find the type of partner for you, it is probably the best pleasure in the world. Anyone else cannot make love and trust that your friend in the world can show. A relative is a precious asset in a person's life.

A friend of a person is the closest and most special person in a person's life. A friend is someone with whom we share all the most essential things in our lives.

Best friends support each other in every sound, bad, wrong, and right situation. The only person in the world who will give you the same love and devotion as your parents and loved ones is your best friend.

In any critical situation, the main person who touches my mind is my friend. Whenever I have a problem, my friend helps me cover it up by providing the most straightforward solutions. My friend gets angry when I do something wrong, and she cheers me up when I do something wrong.

My friend is helping me to become a better person. We plan our weekends and have fun together. My friend is the one who makes me happy and deserves all my love and recognition. My friend has always been my network and my strength.

Friendship can be a great blessing in anyone's life. One becomes acquainted with different people during their lifetime. We find two who think about our height and taste the exact nature in the middle of it. We are very attached to those people and spend a lot of time with them.

Gradually, there is a growing relationship that seems to go away from staying longer in one's life. It is a sign of a healthy relationship, so the friendship begins here. And for most people, being friends is almost family. You and your friends will have much in common.

You spent a lot of time together with your friends. You share anything and everything with your friends. In short, the most memorable moments in everyone's life will be those spent with simple friends. Even though we live hundreds of miles away, we can still call or text today.

Wherever we go, memory connects us and arranges to meet once every three months. We talk about events that happen in our lives, like our bad times when we meet, remember our good old days, take every minute in pictures, and split up again.

CONCLUSION

A friend is anyone who has a bond with him, and mutual understanding builds a relationship. One can have many friends who rely on a social character and, therefore, easily communicate with others.

At different stages of life, we would like friends who are our age, but that is not an option for some people because they believe they are working independently, which is always okay.

Psychologists recommend that people be together to help each other in times of need. There is also the undeniable fact that ways to deal with anxiety are happier when friends are involved.

A lover can be anyone, but a partner is usually the person you value, first of all, your friends. A good friend is like a family. I hope you liked this story from my best friend.

Also Read,

- Descriptive Essay About My Mother in 1000 Words | Free PDF
- Descriptive Essay about a Person You Admire Most | Free PDF