

Process of Analysis Essay

A process analysis essay is a descriptive essay that describes the process or actions a person needs to take to complete a task. You can think of it as a recipe, mentioning all the necessary ingredients and steps, allowing the reader to follow in a logical sequence.

A process analysis essay can be written about a wide range of topics, from high-tech processes to cleaning and tidying up your wardrobe. Writing a process analysis story forces you to take a step back and analyse all of the tools and stages involved in performing the activity before explaining what is required in a logical order for your learner to do the same.

Essay format

With this type of essay function, you will not follow a standard five-paragraph essay. There is still an introduction and body to your story, but your conclusion is like the "analysis" part, and the story will end when you have finished explaining the steps involved in the process. Below, we will analyse exactly what is included in each of these sections. Also, keep in mind that you can still create an outline before you start writing your process analysis story, although it may look like a bullet point list rather than a standard five-paragraph essay.

Introduction

The introduction to your process analysis article will include details about the process you are analysing and why it is essential. This will be the shortest part of your essay. If there is a unique history of the process you will analyse, an introduction is where you can say that. You want to use this section as a brief introduction to your reader 1) what process you will analyse and 2) how or why that process can be helpful information to know.

The body of an essay

Any needs, resources, or tools required to perform the process shall be stated in the body of your process analysis essay. It should also note any risks or warnings involved in the process. It is essential to include everything the student will need to complete the process, even additional tools can help the process go smoothly, but it is not necessary. For example, in the case of the sample process analysis given below on how to make apple butter, I included a tablespoon of buttermilk as part of the list of tools that will be required. Additionally, I mentioned that a food processor would make apple butter look better and have the same consistency. Still, you don't have to have a tool for cooking apple butter.

Following these steps, you will write down the actual process in the order needed to complete the task. Be sure to enter the transition words in the middle of the sections, as these are required to show the process sequence in a logical sequence. Your analysis will probably go through a few stages, so make sure each section describes a different part of the process to avoid confusing your reader.
