TERRORISTS SHOT DEAD

Yesterday while purchasing certain domestic items for the family, I all at once heard cries of the people in an adjacent shop. I was stunned to witness that two terrorists were trying to enter a jeweler shop in the crowded and busy market of Karol Bagh at about 5.00 pm. They had dressed simple clothes with an innocent outlook. Though they had hidden guns inside their shoulder bags. By chance, a customer happened to see the muzzle of the rifle. He immediately got off and came out of the police and the policemen immediately came on the spot. When the terrorists were trying to cover the owner, one of the terrorist's tumbles and his gun fell. Consequently, panic spread and escape but was instantly shot down. However, there was no casualty. The scene stars revolving before my mind when I have remained of the market.
