Subject: Frequent fatal accidents

Sir,

We come across the news of accidents(sometimes even fatal) every other day in the newspapers. Most often, teenagers on motorcycles are involved in such accidents.

It is a matter of common sight that most of the chain snatchers are teen-aged motorcyclists. They drive the motorcycle at break-neck speed and their rash and reckless driving show horrible results. Sometimes they injure or kill others and at other times they injure themselves seriously and fatally. Most of the college-going students drive the motorcycle not caring for the red lights, police barricades, or the speed breakers. They lose balance and meet their untimely end(grave).

Parents of the teenagers must check their ward's speeds occasionally. They should see that they must not drive while they are drunk or before they get a driving license.

In this way, they can prevent such accidents.

Yours faithfully,
